Recommended Pathways

- Option 1:
 - NOC: 211202 (Technical Project Managers)
 - This is a high-demand NOC with a relatively low CRS score cut-off.
 - It aligns with his technical background and experience in engineering and project management.
 - He would need to prove his experience with reference letters and job descriptions.
- Option 2:
 - NOC 225001 (Civil Engineers)
 - This is a high-demand NOC with a low CRS score cut-off.
 - It aligns with his secondary education background as a science student.
 - He would need to provide educational credentials and a relevant letter of employment.
- Option 3:
 - NOC 821114 (Health Information Analysts)
 - This is a medium-demand NOC with a low-CRS score cut-off.
 - It aligns with his SSCE result and does not require a professional degree.
 - He would need to provide a letter of employment and relevant certification.

Recommended NOC Selection

- Recommended NOC: Option 1 - NOC 211202 (Technical Project Managers)
- Justification: This NOC has a high demand and currently has a lower CRS score cut-off. It also aligns with his experience and skills in engineering and project management.

Additional Considerations

- This client is focusing on the Canada Express Entry program through the Federal Skilled Worker category.
- There is a potential delay in the processing time due to the third-party evaluation of his secondary education.
- The timeline outlined is based on the assumption that all documents are readily available.
- If he decides to pursue the Ontario PNP, he would need to wait for the next draw and meet the specific requirements of the chosen stream.

Transparency and Disclaimers

- The processing time for each stage is an estimate and can be affected by several factors, including high volume of applications, technical issues, or unforeseen circumstances.
- The Client acknowledges that the company cannot be held responsible for any delays or changes in the processing time beyond its control.

Client-Specific Notes

- This client has a high IELTS score in listening, speaking, and writing but needs to improve his reading score to meet the minimum requirement.
- He has a strong technical background and experience in engineering and project management, which aligns with the recommended NOC.
- He would need to provide relevant and detailed information about his work experience to strengthen his application.
